The engineering and construction company, KBR, Inc., donated $10,000 to the 13th COSCOM Association March 24 at the 13th Sustainment Command (Expeditionary) headquarters here at Fort Hood.

Retired Lt. Gen. Richard Hack, currently the senior vice president for operations, management, and logistics, for KBR, was on hand to present the check to the Kent Marquardt, president, 13th COSCOM Association.

KBR holds the largest contract with the US Government and also is the largest employer of American private contractors in Iraq.

The 13th COSCOM Association serves the Soldiers of the 13th ESC and also maintains a scholarship fund for their family members.

“You can’t have been a logistician in the Army and not known about the 13th COSCOM,” said Hack. “After all the work they’ve done over the years, and continue to do, it’s just an honor for me to be able to deliver this check on behalf of everyone at KBR.”

Hack served as the commanding general of the 13th Corp Support Command from 1997 to 1999, in addition to other assignments within the unit.

“I’m really pleased that the 13th has an association so folks can remember the past, support the present and future.”

Several officers of the 13th COSCOM Association were also present to show their appreciation.

Jay Taggart, community representative, 13th COSCOM, addressed the troops directly, “This is a great opportunity for the association, but we need all of you to join the 13th COSCOM Association because we’re here to support you,”
